Paris Between Empires, 1814-1852 - Wikipedia

Paris Between Empires tells the story of this golden age, from the entry of the allies into Paris on March 31, 1814, after the defeat of Napoleon I, to the proclamation of his nephew Louis-Napoleon, as Napoleon III in the Hôtel de Ville on December 2, 1852. During those years, Paris, the seat of a new parliamentary government, was a truly cosmopolitan capital, home to Rossini, Heine, and Princess Lieven, as well as Berlioz, Chateaubriand, and Madame Recamier.

Paris Between Empires: Monarchy and Revolution 1814-1852 ...

In Peter Mansel's Paris Between Empires, we see why. The book opens in 1814 with Napoleon in Elba and closes at the Franco-Prussian war and the end of Paris hegemony. What Mansel provides in this densely-packed volume is a vivid description of Paris as it vacillates "between nationalism and Europeanism, Bonapartism and royalism, soldiers and civilians..."
